An independent clause (also known as a main clause) is a word group that has both a subject and a verb and can stand alone as a sentence. A dependent clause (also known as a subordinate clause) is a word group that has both a subject and a verb but can't stand alone as a sentence. A sentence may consist of a single independent clause, multiple independent clauses linked by a conjunction, or a combination of independent and dependent clauses.

Identifying Independent and Dependent Clauses

By its name, you can easily determine the a dependent clause depends on being attached to an independent clause to form a sentence. Usually, dependent clauses can be identified by words called dependent markers. These dependent markers are usually subordinating conjunctions. If a clause begins with any of these words, it is a dependent clause that needs to be attached to an independent clause to express a complete thought:
